DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2,6-7,11-15 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102b) as being Butcher (GB 2284298).

Lee discloses in fig.8, 11, 3 a device comprising: a piezoelectric material layer and a ferroelectric material (3,2,1) clamp together (62), the ferroelectrics material layer having a predetermined direction of polarization (represented by the arrow in fig.8 and 23); and means for providing an input signal to one layer for causing an induced output signal from the other layer without causing a change in the predetermined direction or polarization, the induce out- put signal from the other layer and having a phase determine by the predetermined direction of polarization. Lee disclose the electrodes one the top, bottom and sides of each laminate layers. Wherein the common electrode is provided between the three layers, the input electrode is provided on the top layer of the ferroelectric layer (3) and the output electrode is provided on the bottom of the piezoelectric layer (1). The method is inherent base on the structural limitations of the claims.

With respect to claims 3-5 and 8-10, no structural limitation has been added to these claims. See MPEP 2111.02.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 12/19/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argument that Lee fails to disclose that the induced output signal has a phase, which is determined by the predetermined direction of polarization of the ferroelectric layer, is noted.

However, Lee clearly shows in fig. 8 and 23 an input voltage signal causing an output signal on layer 1 which has a phase which is determined by the predetermined direction of the polarization (arrow) of the ferroelectric layer (3). See col.41 lines 1-49 and col. 37 line44-52).

Applicant requests the Patent Office to clarify the status of claims 3-5 and 8-12 in the next Office Action is noted. See MPEP 2111.02

The recitation that the device is a transformer, amplifier or inverter has not been given patentable weight because it has been held that a preamble is denied the effect of a limitation where the claim is drawn to a structure and the portion of the claim following the preamble is a self-contained description of the structure not depending for completeness upon the introductory clause. Kropa v. Robie, 88 USPQ 478(CCPA 1951)
